

FREDERICKTOWN

The members of the Methodist Sunday school are preparing a fine program for Children's Day exercises to be given at the church next Sunday evening.

Fredericktown is forging ahead considerably these days as shown by the allotment sale held here last Saturday. Bishop & Brown, of Centerville came a few weeks ago and bought a fine tract of land just south of the corporation line and made preparations for another addition to the town. They graded streets, marked off lots and then advertised for about ten days that they would offer their holdings at public sale to whoever cared to buy. The Waterford band was hired to come and sweeten up the occasion with a little music. Their plans were carried out in full. The 88 lots were sold all bringing a very good price. Those who bought have not found any of their purchases a "white elephant" as a number of the lots have changed hands since, giving the original buyers a good profit for their investment. The town was full of excitement all day and in spite of threatening weather. A large crowd attended the sale. Bishop and Brown carried out their agreements to the letter and we hear on every side nothing but praise for their part in the transactions. There are some who bought land for investment sake but most of the lots will be built upon with good modern homes before another summer passes if the people who bought carry out their present intentions, in fact some are beginning their work of building right away.
